DEPRESSED AND SUICIDAL CLIENTS TOPIC OF WORKSHOP

MISSOULA--

"Assessing and Treating Depressed and Suicidal Clients," a workshop for professionals who work with depressed patients, is scheduled March 22 and 23 in Great Falls.

Taught by Janet Wollersheim, director of clinical psychology at the University of Montana, the workshop will be of particular interest to psychologists, psychiatrists, physicians, social workers, clergy and counselors.

The workshop meets from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day at the Rainbow Hotel, 20 Third St. N. Advanced registration is required as enrollment is limited. Telephone registration is accepted.

Cost of the workshop is $135 plus an additional $30 recording fee if the participant wishes to receive 1.2 continuing education units or one graduate credit in psychology from UM.

The workshop will provide workers in the area of mental health with current theories, research and application strategies on the problems of depression. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss their particularly troublesome cases.

Wollersheim received her B.A. from Gonzaga University, her M.A. from St. Louis University and her Ph.D. from the University of Illinois with specialization in adult and child psychology. She has taught at the Universities of Illinois
